- We investigate model based optimization of applications in a private cloud.

- The goal is to minimize the application SLA violations while reducing hardware cost.

- Tracked performance models account for environmental adaptation during optimization.

- Tracking models result in a more accurate optimization and greater profit.